HOLIDAY GIFT GIVING IDEAS AT CORTILE GALLERY

Cortile Gallery believes it is possible to give a gift that will be cherished for years to come without breaking one's pocketbook. To this end, Cortile Gallery presents its Gift Giving Ideas links on its gallery website cortilegallery.com. Collectors and visitors can scroll through individual galleries which include glass, prints, paintings, and sculpture, at various price ranges. Artwork collections can be purchased for as little as $40 for a handcrafted sea glass hanging ornament and range up to $8500 for bronze sculpture and paintings. Cortile Gallery is also offering free standard shipment within the continental USA on paintings purchases $250 and over when purchased through the internet from now through December 31st. To take advantage of the free shipping offer, contact the gallery with your purchase inquiry and inform the gallery that you would like to take advantage of the holiday shipping offer.

Jack Coughlin
Etchings & Woodcuts

Jack Coughlin to show at Cortile Gallery. Coughlin is well known for his strong portraits of literary figures and musicians. His prints, drawings and watercolors have been exhibited widely across the United States and Europe. They are in the permanent collections of the Metropolitan Museum and the Museum of Modern Art in New York, the National Collection of Fine Arts in Washington D.C., the Norfolk Museum of Arts and Sciences in Virginia, the Worcester Art Museum in Massachusetts, the University of Colorado, the Philadelphia Free Public Library, Staedelsches Kunstinstitut, Frankfurt, Germany, the New University of Ulster, Coleraine, Northern Ireland and in several other important museum, university and library collections worldwide. To see Coughlin's artwork, please visit the gallery website www.cortilegallery.com.

One of many talented artists in the Asperger Syndrome community, Gary Hudson shares a unique point of view regarding art and life. Asked to share his experiences, Hudson states, "My paintings are about light on a structure and how the colors are changed by it and the patterns of the shadows created by this. My subject matter is usually older buildings of unique designs such as a lighthouse, mills, factories, or stores. Whether derelict or still in use, these structures are unique and do not conform to the modern, prefabricated buildings which have come into being." Hudson was born in Providence, R.I. in 1951 and grew up in Pawtucket, R.I. He spent his youth and teen years on Cape Cod. It was here that he first saw many of the places which he paints. In 2006, Hudson discovered he had Asperger's Syndrome. This knowledge put so much into place in his life and, in his words, has been liberating. After a struggling youth, he finally found acceptance with fellow humans in the world of the traditional music of Ireland, Scotland, England and America. Beyond painting, Hudson makes and plays the Irish Frame Drum known as the Bodhran as well as Irish whistles. His Bodhrans and whistles were spotlighted in Seeing With A Different Eye, an art show sponsored by AANE in 2007-2008. His Irish whistles made of African Black-wood and Delrin were exhibited in the Folk Art Show at the Berta Walker Gallery in May - June 2008.
